We are using this book in our Presbyterian adult education class. It has provoked much interesting discussion. As we have just recently started attending the Presbyterian Church it is giving us some very good insights into the theology of the church. I would highly recommend it for individual reading and especially for group discussion. The author discusses the church today and puts into words much of what we have observed in our culture.

It is an interesting study book for Presbyterians, especially for those who come from other denominations. We are using it for a group study.

An excellent and readable introduction to the Reformed Tradition and its basic theology.
